The Romanian Chairmanship-in-Office got officially underway during the “Coordination Meeting of the BSEC Chairmanship-in-Office, the BSEC Committee of Senior Officials, BSEC Related Bodies and the BSEC PERMIS” held at the BSEC Headquarters, on 17 January 2020.

The Romanian Chair presented the priorities of the Chairmanship to the participants under the motto: “Bridging Shores through Enhancing Cohesion”, which illustrates Romania’s belief that the prerequisite for the future consolidation of the BSEC activities should be built around cohesion, interconnectivity and dialogue. It was stated that the Chairmanship will strive to forge a more result-oriented cooperation by building confidence and trust, encouraging dialogue and constructive action with the aim to take further steps in delivering the core mission of BSEC: shared prosperity through better connectivity within the region.

The full text of the priorities is available on: <http://www.bsec-organization.org/chairmanship>.

Art transcends boundaries and unites us!

A Drawing Competition aiming to acquaint 14-15 year-old students from BSEC Member States with the vision of a Black Sea region united through the challenges it faces was organized by the Hellenic Ministry of Education and Religious Affairs and was the first of its kind in BSEC history.

The theme of the Competition was “Black Sea: the sea that unites us”. Six BSEC countries were able to participate, each with one or more drawings. The winners were students from the Republic of Moldova.

It is the firm intention of BSEC PERMIS to encourage similar initiatives in the near future, with, hopefully, greater participation of the younger generation from all the BSEC Member States.

BSEC-EU meet annually to review cooperation and plan for the future.

The informal annual meeting of the BSEC Organization with the COEST Working Party of the EU (The Working Party on Eastern Europe and Central Asia) was held in Brussels, on 6 December 2019.

Almost all of the participants that took the floor reiterated the significance and value that this annual informal meeting has recently acquired, providing a convenient framework for the regular overview of what has been achieved and for a useful exchange of views and proposals on further promoting the BSEC-EU cooperation in a balanced, practical and mutually agreeable way.

As it is by now widely acknowledged, the relationship between BSEC and the EU has attained a level which has to be preserved and further enhanced, as a concrete contribution to the promotion of peace, stability and prosperity in the sensitive Black Sea region.

THE REGIONAL STAKEHOLDERS CONFERENCE

“BLACK SEA SYNERGY: THE WAY FORWARD”

The main objective of the conference, organized on 7 November in Athens by the International Centre for Black Sea Studies (ICBSS), was to provide a platform for dialogue to stakeholders from EU Member States and non-EU Black Sea countries and to stimulate the discussion on the future of the Black Sea Synergy, a regional initiative created by the EU in 2008 with the aim to promote cooperation in the region, especially in areas such as Energy, Transports and Environment.

Almost 100 participants from the public and private sectors took active part in the four structured workshops (Culture and Tourism, Energy, Transport and Education), thus demonstrating the keen interest of all to contribute to the objectives of this important initiative. After lively deliberations many useful conclusions were drawn, which will be further elaborated and published in a Concept Paper by the ICBSS as a guide for the promotion of joint projects within the Black Sea Synergy.

The Conference gave many opportunities for networking between experts, scientists, entrepreneurs and organizations active in the region. BSEC PERMIS actively participated in the above Workshops.

Regional organizations met in Barcelona to discuss Climate Change.

The Coordination Meeting of Regional Organizations, hosted by the Union for the Mediterranean (UmF), was held on 13 November 2019 in Barcelona with the participation of BSEC, the Central European Initiative (CEI), the Adriatic and Ionian Initiative (AII) and the Council of the Baltic Sea States. This event is usually hosted every year by a different regional European Organization; it was the first time so few of the latter attended this useful coordination meeting, which helps regional international entities to exchange views on their activities and coordinate their efforts in order to avoid duplication and enhance effectiveness.

BSEC PERMIS was represented by the First Deputy Secretary General, Ambassador Selim Yenel; participants underlined the need for concerted action by international organizations in order to address the negative effects of climate change. Among other, it was argued that the melting of the Arctic ice is creating new trade routes that could render obsolete the old ones, thus causing possible economic and social upheavals. Rising sea levels will not only affect islands but also coastal cities, thus more regional cooperation and synergies are needed to address these risks.

Participants declared that they were ready for more joint projects which could be co-funded by organizations enjoying greater access to funding. It was agreed that focal points should be established in order to continue the exchange of views and experiences on a more regular basis.

The next Coordination Meeting of Regional Organizations will be hosted by the BSEC Organization in its Istanbul headquarters, most probably in 2020.

The Black Sea region and BSEC attract the interest of Canadian academic circles.

An expert panel event dedicated to Regional Cooperation in the Wider Black Sea Area was hosted by the Carleton University in Ottawa, on 2 December 2019 in order to discuss integration possibilities in the wider Black Sea area, including issues of economic development and security.

The event brought together prominent representatives from BSEC Member States, leading regional experts and students who shared their views on the establishment and activities of various regional inter-governmental organizations in the wider Black Sea area, especially that of the Black Sea Economic Cooperation Organization (BSEC); Participants argued that given the positive activity of similar entities, one can realistically expect that peaceful change in this sensitive, geostrategic region of our Globe could eventually be possible.

The BSEC PERMIS Secretary General, Ambassador Michael B. Christides, addressed the panel via video, providing general information on the BSEC Organization, its history and achievements, as well as on its vital role as a first-level confidence building mechanism in full action.

BSEC is eager to further develop cooperation with its Observers, Sectoral Dialogue Partners and with third parties.
